On Tuesday November 6th I left home and drove directly to my customary polling place at Sagamore Hills Elementary. I got there by 6:50 AM and there was already a line outside waiting for the school to open. At 7 AM the school open and I got in line which was quite long and took close to 45 min to make it to where you complete your form. Afterwards I got in line to the table where they take your government issued ID. When I got there and they scanned my license (see below) they said that I was not registered to vote.

I told them that I was and actually pulled out my cell phone and went to the GA voter registration site (<https://www.mvp.sos.ga.gov/MVP/mvp.do>) where I entered my information and then showed them this screen:

They then stated that the problem was that my registration was with my last name as "del Rio" while in my driver's license my last name was "delrio" (no space) and that there was not a match. I told them then that the problem was that the GA DMV did not allow a space in the last name and thus DELRIO vs my name, which was actually DEL RIO. I also told them that I thought that the exact match ruling had been struck down. The volunteer doing the registration told me she was going to check with someone else and, when she returned, she told me "for this time we will allow you to vote".
